Abstract:

Since the change of the social system the Slovak higher schools recorded a sharp development, that changed their quantitative and qualitative characteristics. Prevaile, however, extensive growth. A modest amount of results have been achieved in the area of improving the quality of education. Saturation of demand for higher education is to the fore the question of the quality of higher education. If you want to stop the proces a stagnation and degradation of the quality of higher education, it is necessary to remove barriers to its growth. My aim was to analyse the endogenous and exogenous growth barriers to quality in higher education in the Slovak Republic. Subsequently, on the basis of the analysis of design solutions for eliminating these barriers. The results of the analysis, together with the proposed solutions may be useful in the taking of decisions at the various levels of governance of higher education.
